Big Strip Mining Job Starts Here

Rebuilding North Fork Road To Haul Coal To Clearfield

Massive earth moving equipment has been moved into Morgan county by the newly-organized East Kentucky Construction and Mining Co., of Prestonsburg which has a contract with Consolidated Coal Corporation to mine and transport coal on about 50,000 acres in northern Morgan county between the waters of Elkfork and Wells Creek in southern Elliott.

At present the equipment is being used to rebuild sectors of roads along the right-of-way of the old Morehead and North Fork Railway from Craney at the Rowan county line to Redwine, and to build a road from Redwine up hill to get on top of the long ridges where a coal seam of from 8 to 11 feet thick will be strip-mined along the ridge tops for about seven or eight miles, eastward.

The mining company, headed by Harry B. Ranier of Allen, reportedly has acquired the C & O siding of Lee Clay Products Corp. at Clearfield (near Morehead) and will transport the coal via trucks to Clearfield where it will be crushed in the crushing plant formerly used by Lee Clay Products, then loaded on cars on the C & O for Consolidation Coal Corp

Consolidation, one of the two largest coal corporations in this area, was acquired recently by Continential Oil, one of the big three oil companies of the world.

East Kentucky Construction and Mining Co., Inc. was incorporated a few weeks ago by Mr. Ranier and others to conduct "mining business, construct and operated railways, tramways, and haulways for mining and moving of coal." The firm is capitalized at $50,000.

From Redwine, the company will haul coal over the state rural highway down North Fork, crossing KY-7 at Wrigley, and on down North Fork to the Rowan line at Craney, thence through the tunnel to Paragon and up the Lick Fork road to Clearfield.

By building a three-mile sector from Leisure to Craney and making use of the old railway bridge across Minor Branch, hauling distance from Redwine to Clearfield will be cut to about 22 miles.

Heavy equipment is now at work building the three-mile sector from Leisure to Craney along the old railway right-of-way, and also widening the road from Leisure up North Fork. The railroad bridge, long out of use at Craney, has steel girders that will accomodate the hugh coal trucks. However, the bridge is to be re-floored.

From Wrigley to Redwine two small bridges on the present rural road are to be rebuilt so they will accommodate the heavy coal trucks, Mr. Ranier told Judge Gene Allen.

Judge Allen also said the firm will build a road from Redwine over the hill to connect with the Straight Creek road. The firm will use the road from the ridge top down to Redwine to transport its coal from strip-mining operations along the ridges six to eight miles eastward. The area includes ridgetops north of Mordicae, Big Mandy, Rockhouse Branch, the four forks of Straight Creek and Laurel Fork.

Judge Allen said that building the two sectors of new roads will cost an estimated $320,000 — $114,000 for the sector from Redwine to the Straight Creek road; and $216,000 for the sector from Leisure to Craney. Ranier's firm will spend additional money widening the present road down North Fork, to a width of 30 feet clearance, Judge Allen said.

When in full operation, Ranier said his firm would employ about 100 local people, most of them truck drivers and heavy equipment operators.

Consolidation, acquired coal leases for the 50,000 acres, it is understood, from Crate Rice and James Trimble of Paintsville, who leased considerable acreage in Morgan last year for both oil and minerals. Additionally, the company acquired Lee Clay Products' siding, loading equipment and crushing plant at Clearfield, and rights to use its old railway rights-of-way in Rowan and Morgan.

However, state and county rural roads use most of the right-of-way, and the mining company will be required to maintain these public roads, it is presumed.

Ranier's firm is moving giant earth-moving equipment into Morgan for the work, and more is yet to be brought in, it is understood.

Work of bulldozing and facing-up coal seams atop the long ridges from Mordicae eastward has been in progress for some weeks. Persons who have seen the "facings" say the coal is from 9 to 11 feet thick under Granddaddy Knob and along all ridges that have elevations of 1,050 feet above sea level.

ANNUAL EZEL OPRY SET MAY 1 AT EZEL SCHOOL

Early American music and dancing will be back in style at Ezel on Saturday night, May 1. at the 14th annual EZEL OPRY to be held at the Ezel High School gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

The Ezel Opry, which is a gigantic talent show, seems to grow bigger and better each year as music makers from throughout Morgan and surrounding counties gather at about sundown once a year and make the rafters ring with authentic mountain music to a capacity crowd until late in the evening.

Approximately 75 performers participate each year.

The proceeds from the program will be used as a scholarship for two members of the 1971 graduating class at Ezel High School. Richard Jett of West Liberty will produce, direct, and serve as master of ceremonies for the program. All local and area musicians and singers are invited to perform.

MONITOR PETROLEUM CORP'S. deep-test well in Morgan is shown on this map by circle and dot, on left side of Doc Ison Creek about seven-eights of a mile north of Moon. The big oil well is on the farm of Fred Ison and was drilled to the granite at a depth of 10,016 feet.

Moon Well Comes In Big

Frack and Acid Hit Big Flow In Knox at 5,000

Halliburton experts fractured a section of the Knox formation in Monitor Petroleum corporation's deep-test well at Moon Monday, the fracture section was acidized Tuesday night, and by Wednesday morning the hole was flowing oil out the top with a terrific pressure.

Monitor crewman lef the hole blow off a few hours, then commenced running 2-inch tubing Wednesday about 2 p.m. Setting 5,000 feet of tubing was finished by 6 p.m. and by nightfall the well was flowing 10 barrels an hour, according to Binck Strickland, Monitor's division manager.

"It sure looks like a big one, a mighty big producer," Strickland said Wednesday night.

The fracture reservoir in the

However the gas flow was not tested fianlly because workers had to seal off the hole at about 5,000 feet in order to fracture the oil pay in the Knox.

The second frack job was completed Monday and by Tuesday crews were swabbing out oil and water at about the rate of eight barrels an hour—a mixture of five barrels of oil and three of water Mr. Strickland said.

Crews went back Tuesday night and acidized the Knox fracture, using 20,000 gallons of acid. This is done to clean out the fractures and enlarge the reservoir.

The deep-test is on the farm of Fred Ison on Doc Ison Creek, and was drilled on a farm-out agreement with Ashland Ool, Pennzoil and Sun. It is Monitor's second deep-test in Eastern Kentucky. Monitor last year drilled a 9,670 foot well at Stephens in eavstern Knox also is producing a big flow of gas, possibly two million feet, Strickland said.

At 10 barrels an hour, the well possibly is a 200 to 250 barrel a day producer.

Accurate tests cannot be made for another three or four days, but Strickland is expecting at least a 250 barrel well. "And there's a good chance it will be even bigger," he said.

Ashland Oil had only one 220 barrel tank at the well, and Strickland was staying at the well Wednesday night so he could cut off the flow when the tank filled.

"The flow of oil and gas is rocking the line leading to the tank, and jerking it a lot," Strickland said.

He said trucks would bring in three or four more tanks today (Thursday) to collect the oil.

The Knox is between 4,900 and 5.000 feet deep. It was the second fracture job in the well. Halliburton had fracked the basal sands at about 10,000 feet two weeks ago, where considerable gas was struck.

Elliott, about 15 miles north of the Moon well, where a good flow of gas was hit in the St. Peter.

Since coming to Kentucky, Monitor has picked up large acreages of leases in four counties—Morgan, Elliott, Lawrence and Johnson.

The firm plans to drill a number of wells in the first three counties and a few in Johnson if the Moon deep test produces as expected.

CITY SERVICE MAY DRILL SOON

City Service has obtained about 500 acres of leases on Ferguson Branch which parallels Doc Ison Creek about a mile to the east, and is having the boundaries surveyed preparatory to drilling, it was learned his week. City Service acquired the lease from Petroleum Exploration which had leased it from Willie Ferguson. Reports are heard that City Service plans to make location for a well almost immediately, about a mile east of Monitor Petroleum's deep-test on Doc Ison Creek.

MAJOR CAMPAIGN SPEECH FOR FORD SET HERE 17TH

FRANKFORT, KY. — One of 22 major campaign speeches on behalf of Wendell Ford in the Seventh Congressional District will be held at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, April 17 at the Morgan County Courthouse in West Liberty.

The rally, featuring Dr. Joe Hyden as speaker, will be held at the same time similar rallies are going on in the 21 other county courthouses in the Seventh District.

Sen. Walter "Dee" Huddleston, state campaign chairman for Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford, said the rallies are being held because "the people of Kentucky deserve to know the facts in this campaign, and they are not getting it from the statewide news media."

"Lt. Gov. Ford has limited his campaign to the positive issues of politics and government, but apparently this is not sensational enough to rate notice by the statewide news media," Huddleston said.

The state chairman added that thousands of Kentuckians have contacted Ford headquarters, concerned about the lack of publication of the facts, and many have volunteered their time and effort to see that the facts are made known.

Burley Farmers to Vote May 4 On Poundage Control Plan

Series Of Meetings In County Will Be Held Before Voting

Morgan county's ASCS committee is planning a series of community meetings throughout the county to acquaint burley farmers with provisions of the proposed new poundage control program, and to urge them to vote in the referendum May 4.

At least one meeting will be held in each of the county's seven ASCS communities, the local office said this week.

However, the dates and places for the seven meetings have not yet been worked out. They will be announced as soon as they are decided upon.

The referendum will be conducted in the regular voting places of the county. The seven ASCS communities generally correspond geographically with the seven political voting precincts, it was explained.

Voting will be supervised by the community committee of each ASCS community.

The series of Community meetings is being programmed in order to explain all details of the proposed new poundage control program, and to urge all farmers to take part in the voting on May 4.

A two-thirds majority of the farmers voting is required to adopt the plan.

The local ASCS office already has been supplied with ballots to conduct the referendum, and farm poundage quota for each farmer will be mailed to the farmer April 21 or soon thereafter.

Revival To Start Sunday At First Christian Church

A weeklong revival will get underway Sunday evening at the West Liberty Christian Church with an evangelistic team from Indiana and Michigan leading the services and activities.

Bringing the messages will be Rev. Members of Mr. Wiedenman's family will also be active is youth activities during the week.

Rev. Steve Bliffen, pastor, extends an invitation to everyone to attend. Services will begin at 7:30 each evening.

COMBS FISH FRY FOR 3 COUNTIES BEING PLANNED

Plans were tentatively worked out last Wednesday in West Liberty for a fund-raising fish fry for the Combs for governor campaign.

The fish fry, it was agreed, will be a three-county gathering of Combs supporters, and will probably be held at Campton for Morgan, Wolfe and Magoffin counties.

A crowd that filled the Morgan county circuit court room attended the Combs meeting here Wednesday night of last week, and heard speeches by Claude Reed of Pikeville, and Dr. Alec Spencer of West Liberty. Woodrow Stamper, co-chairman of the Combs-Carroll camapign in Morgan, presided.

Mr. Reed, who was the Democratic nominee for Secretary of State four years ago, is a Pikeville banker who is on a leave of absence to campaign for the Combs-Carroll ticket. He recounted the many accomplishments of Combs during his last term of governor, and urged a united effort in the May primary to renominate him for governor.

Dr. Spencer, co-chairman in Morgan county, made a short campaign talk urging everyone to help return Combs to the governorship, terming him the Governor who started Kentucky on the Path to Progress.

Atty. Marcus Mann and a group from Magoffin county, and Scott Rose and a group from Wolfe County attended the gathering.

Walter Allen of May Grocery Co. pledged a donation of enough fish for the three-county fish fry.

Choice Will Be Poundage Quotas Or No Support Plan

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Burley tobacco farmers will vote May 4 whether to accept poundage quota controls or no price support program at all.

The bill establishing the poundage system hasn't been signed by President Nixon yet, but would be effective Friday without his signature unless he vetoes the measure or signs it sooner.

The bill limits the pounds of leaf a farmer can grow as opposed to the old program of limiting acreage for burley production. To become effective the poundage program must be approved by two-thirds of the growers in the eight-state burley belt May 4.

Agriculture Department officials were in Louisville Monday to explain the new program to burley tobacco organization leaders and ASCS committee members from eight states.

One of the USDA officials said his agency was not assuming the bill would be signed, but wanted "to educate farmers about the plan in the event it becomes law."

The new production controls stems from general agreement that the acreage program did not control production effectively. Average yields per acre have increased from 1,600 pounds in 1960 to about 2,600 pounds in 1970 and as of March 1, burley tobacco in government loan holdings amounted to a record 500 million pounds.

Ballots Are Ready

The director of the Kentucky ASCS, Homer Yonts, said ballots for the referendum now are ready in county offices and that farm poundage quotas already have been computed. These will be mailed to farmers April 21 if the bill is signed, he said.

Poundage quotas for this year's crop are being computed on the average four highest yields of the past five years. No quota can be based on a yield exceeding 3,500 pounds per acre.

While the national marketing quota has yet to be set this year by the secretary of agriculture, many tobaccomen predict growers will take the maximum 5 per cent poundage cut in 1971.

For the 1972 marketing year, a 5 per cent cut of the 1971 quotas is expected for farmers whose allotment exceeded one-half acre under the old program.

Under the poundage proposal, farmers whose acreage allotments are now a half acre or less will receive quota cuts of no more than 2½ percent in 1972 and 1973. Allotments of half acre or less are protected from any production cuts under the present acreage allotment program.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my dear, beloved mother Allie Fugett Ferguson, who passed away April 23, 1969 —

The Gardener walked through the garden one day
He was gathering flowers for the Master's bouquet.
There were blossoms by Millions
So sweet and so fair
And the one that he picked
Was the loveliest there
A heart of gold stopped beating
Two loving eyes at rest.
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.
God knew you had to leave us.
But you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you.
The day God took you home.
To some you are forgotten.
To others just off the path
But to us who loved and lost you
Your memory will always last.
It's a lonesome house without you.
And sad has been the way.
For life and home are not the same
Since you were called away.

Sadly missed by husband, Emmett Ferguson, children, and grandchildren.

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Former Gov. A. B. Chandler, an independent candidate for governor this year, announced Monday he favors a state lottery as an additional source of state funds.

Chandler said, however, that it would be impossible to put a lottery into effect immediately in the state because of a constitutional prohibition, but he indicated he would offer such a proposal to the voters in the form of a constitutional amendment if he was elected.

A LETTER TO UNCLE SAM

A ten-year old, tousled haired boy, with tear-stained cheeks, observed, "I see, sir, you belong to the DAV (Seeing the Disabled American Veterans emblem on the cap the veterans was wearing when he was called to attend to a military funeral for the boys' Daddy.) That's my Daddy's outfit, too." Then on, spilled the story of his father's struggle to support him and his brothers and sisters. He showed a copy of the letter he had written to Uncle Sam and mailed without stamp. He dis not know that the original copy of the letter would go to the dead letter mail, because he had mailed it without a return address. This is a true story as told by a Life Member of the DAV.

Dear Uncle Sam:

I am proud of my Daddy, for he belonged to a very special outfit—the DAV. It is the one whose emblem has Miss Liberty and a soldier kneeling in front of her. A sword resting on his shoulder. When asking his Daddy about this, he said to the boy, "My son, I belong to an outfit of men who have given everything but their lives for the U. S. A. Some who belong to the DAV have given their limbs, some their nerves, some then sometimes I'd catch him praying to God to find a way to make a dollar stretch to the end of the month. But our God seems to help us, some way or the other.

I am proud to say, my Daddy and his buddies are great, you see, and the best guys in this world.

But now, I don't know what I'll do, for God came to my Daddy last night and took him while I slept. Mommy says he went home to sleep among the warriors of our nations who were great in the service of our country and now no pain he'll know—never. For the Lord took him home.

Uncle Sam, I thank you for the best Daddy a boy ever had.

I will always remember my Daddy and his buddies of the DAV, for they helped each other in every way they could.

He will have a military funeral. And after the minister says his last words, three rifle shots will ring out, and a bugle will play taps softly. Then the Commander of his Chapter have been injured—some small and some greatly. Just to make sure of freedom for each of us. But, gee," he says, "It was worth it for our country!

"We serve each other in one way or the other. For we have one aim: to serve those who served us. For unity is our purpose. No petty qualities or politics mark our outfit. We stand united as one—one for all, and all for one. We help each other."

The boy not understanding all of what his Daddy said, thought it was all right, for his Daddy said so.

The boy was so proud on parade days, such as Memorial Day and Veterans' Day. His Dad's DAV Flag would go marching by.

My Daddy worried quite a lot, for his pension didn't go far enough, and he missed meals, so my brothers, sisters and I could eat our fill. And will hand my Mother a folded Flag of our country, and we will keep it forever as a memory of my Daddy and the best pal I ever had.

And with these few words, I close my letter to you, Uncle Sam, I hope you understand.

At the cemetery, the lad asked the soldier, "Do you think the Lord has room up in heaven for my best pal, my Dad?"

"Yes, son, He most certainly has." The veteran choked with grief for this lad of ten. He hugged him, wiped the tears of grief from his eyes, and patted him on the back in an effort to give him assurance that God would take care of his Dad, his pal.

When he gently released the lad, he dashed away to the car, turned and waved goodbye to the soldier and to his Dad. Soon he and his family was gone. No, doubt his face, will be etched in the memory of the soldier forever, for "Of such is the kingdom of our Lord made."

This story appeared in the DAV magazine sometime ago. This is a true story, as told by one of our Life Members in the DAV.

The DAV must have had a profound influence on this boy, and his Dad ranked high in his life, as so many other Dads do. I do know, I have never seen men stick together as these men do in the DAV. When one is in trouble, they all are. So many times they have proved this, especially in Chapter 18. You do not have to call on them, when they know one of its members are in need, they are always there to lend a helping hand. This means so much to some of them, who have more than they think they can bear.

Not only the DAV, but, I'm sure all the other Veterans Organizations are doing the same. Former men and women of the Armed Forces, should work together toward the benefits of all Veterans, both disabled and otherwise. Unity is their motto! This scripture seems to say it all:

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethern to dwell together in Unity:

Members and former members of Mrs. Scottyee Franklin's Kiddie College Kindergarten were in Morehead Monday at the Baird Music Hall on the Morehead University campus to participate in a demonstration project before a college class.

CLEAN AND COLORFUL—THAT'S HOW WEST LIBERTY SHOULD LOOK FOR THE DOGWOOD FESTIVAL

West Liberty should look its best for the Dogwood Festival May 7-8, for it will be thronged with people. Clean streets, neat yards, and a pleasing appearance will give the visitors a good impression of our town, while litter, unkept yards and dirty streets will give a bad impression.

The local festival committee and the crafts-men they have enlisted will make the Dogwood Festival an ineresting and colorful event—one that we predict will be perpetuated through the years and become one of the biggest and most popular foothills events in Appalachia.

Thus, it behooves up all to join in making our town as beautiful a setting as we can for this opening Festival

A little time and labor spent in a city-wide clean-up will add prestige to our town. Then after the city-wide clean-up, individuals and groups can beautify their homes, yards and places of business to make West Liberty spic and span, colorful and pleasing for the thousands of visitors who will throng here May 7-8 to enjoy Morgan County's first Dogwood Festival.

DON'T LET THE MUD-SLINGING START

Says the Lexington Herald—"To the dismay of some, the Democratic primary is now being sprinkled by some spicy advertisements, sponsored by local supporters in some of the counties. We would hope that the campaign will not be so mired in mud that leadership cannot emerge. If vision and hope is not promoted, then brute actions by overzealous supporters will take over. The mud-slinging that already has emerged in some counties endangers the elective process precisely because it is an immediately felt simulus that may blot out judgment. This is not the way to choose officials of government."

While Mr. Combs and Mr. Ford are talking issues and programs, it develops that some of their over-zealous supporters in some counties are sponsoring mud-slinging ads, says the Herald. And party leaders know this is bad for the party, also bad for the electorate who may act on snap judgments rather than sound judgment to promote party strength and a solid respect for democratic processes.

70,000 HOUSEWIVES BUY AFGHAN SETS

(FROM ONE AD)

Americans are taking to do-it-yourself projects, arts and crafts and needlework by the hundreds of thousands. In these disquieting times, maybe they are trying to get back to old and simpler ways through using their hands and their talents.

Anyway, suppliers of tools and gadgets, knitting and crocheting supplies and the like are enjoying a rich market supplying the at-home artisans.

For instance, one firm (Ulmann's) recently used a double-page spread color ad of its "wildflower" afghan in a national publication and received 70,000 orders via mail for the $18 kit. That's a total of $1,260,000 sold through one ad, says the financial editor of The New York Times.

Businesses that know their values use the print media for effective results — pictures, description and prices — that's what sells. Montgomery Ward and Mr. Sears found that out ahead of the rest—and they're still using pictures, prices and description via the print media, to sell. And Sears is building one of the tallest skyscrapers in the world.

Sound waves help whoop it up—but it's pictures, prices and description — plus an order form, that brings in the dough.

Pictures, prices and description have to get into the homes to sell. That's why the county-seat home newspaper is the best advertising medium for hometown businesses. It gets into area homes with prices, pictures and description—gets there when the home people are receptive and thinking.

WISDOM FROM THE SAGES

The author of WHAT TO EAT — AND WHEN ended a health article with this revelation:

"There is more to life and health than this. Much is shrouded in mystery, because we fail to draw the Veil aside.

"One must not finish this article without letting you see a little behind the Veil. Not all health, not all healing arises from food, water, rest and sleep, nor from the advice and medication of the nurse or any attendant, or the earth-plane physician, however important and essential all these may be. Much help is given, much healing done, both by day and night and especially in sleep, by physisians and other healers who work in silence, who serve and labor unseen."

BUSINESS HERE AND HEREABOUTS

TIMBER IN KENTUCKY -- As Kentucky observed its 85th Arbor Day April 10 it is well to note that Kentucky has 12 million acres of commercial timberland, and that sawmills provide 18,000 persons with jobs. Kentucky forests offer over 60 species of commercial trees. Thus, it becomes clear that Kentuckians need to perpetuate its timber resources. Trees and lumber will increase in value in the future.

A few honors can sometimes start a big expansion of the cranium.

MT. STERLING BOMB HITS RESTAURANT

MT. STERLING, KY. -- Dynamite was thrown onto the roof of the KY Restaurant here last Wednesday night and blew a hole about three feet square in the roof, damaging a large portion of the ceiling over the dance floor. Mrs. Elizabeth Everman, owner, has posted a $1,000 reward. No one was injured but the blast was heard over most of the town, and caused considerable excitement.

Polluted air serves many purposes as well as pure air does, as, for examples, it is used as transmission of power in operating tools for ripping up newly paved streets; it makes possible the use of suction pumps; it is used to inflate tires, and it keeps our bodies from exploding.

OBSERVATIONS AND PREDICTIONS

WATERWAY POLLUTION — The waterway pollution program of the federal government, begun in 1956, has been a "miserable failure," concludes a 21-month study by a Ralph Nader group. The report focuses on industrial discharges and condemns the performance of many agencies and officials. It also assails industry for "conning the public" with declarations of large water-cleanup expenditures and asserts that in 1969 such outlays by manufacturers totaled less than 0.2% of their revenues. And the Ohio River was termed by Nader as the most polluted stream in the nation, with the sewage from 11 states empyting into it.

LEE'S APPALACHIAN FOCUS —Senator John Sherman Cooper and Congressman Carl Perkins are to be complimented for helping Lee's Junior College at Jackson obtain a $250,000 grant from the National Endowment for Humanities. It is the first such grant made to a junior college, and will be used to restructure the entire curricula at Lee's around the theme, "Man and His Total Environment — Focus On Southern Appalachia". This is a worthwhile aim for the mountain college, and Lee's President Troy Eslinger, noting that the college has spent three years evaluating its goals and purposes in the hill country, says "Now we will have the resources to implement our plans, and perhaps even some of our dreams". Lee's campus soon will have specialists in the social sciences and humanities as well as authorities on Appalachian culture and regional educational developments. A suggestion — Hazel Green Academy might well share in the regional project.

DR. WALKER WAS HERE — Dr. Walker and his explorers came throught this area in 1750 when they explored Kentucky, according to Berkley's HISTORY OF TAZWELL COUNTY, VIRGINIA. We picked up the item while scanning "THE KENTUCKY MOUNTAINS—TRANSPORTATION AND INDUSTRY 1750-1911" by Mary Verhoeff, in The Filson Club's library last week in Louisville—

"Numerous trails led from known route extended from the the Warriers' Path to the two forks of Big Sandy. The best Crossing at Red River and up that stream and its tributaries to the headwaters of the Licking. Gaining the Louisa Fork Trail near Paintsville, it passed on to the Tug Fork and a connection with the Greenbrier route. This trail was taken by Dr. Walker in 1750 and is probably the same as that given on the Pownal-Evans map with extensions to the mouth of the Guyandotte and Kanawah Rivers."

—THE KENTUCKY MOUNTAINS AND TRANSPORTATION AND COMMERCE, 1750-1911, by Mary Verhoeff as copied from Berkley's History of Tazwell County, Va.

—o—

STRAW VOTE OPINION — The Census Bureau counted college students and added their numbers to the local census figures of the college towns. Now college students are wanting to vote in their college towns instead of back home. But Kentuckians think otherwise. The Lexington Herald in a straw poll found that 66.2% of respondents said "NO" to permitting them to vote in their college towns, while 24.9% said "YES". The Herald also found that 72.4% of respondents were against a proposed change in the drunk driving laws to permit a convicted driver to keep his driver license to drive to and from work.

—o—

MINE ACID DRAINAGE CURE — A cheap cure for acid mine drainage that ruins mountain streams in Appalachia is promised. Two years ago the U. S. Government made a $100,000 grant to Continental Oil Co., parent of Consolidated Coal Corp., to study ways to cure acid mine drainage. Chemists working on the project found that iron-hungry bacteria can eat up the "yellow boy" or "red dog" that coats stream beds and prevents neutralizers to work on sulphuric acid seeping from old mines. Hydrated lime at $17 a ton has helped neutralize the "red dog" coating. But chemists at the Fairmont, W. Va., pilot project have found that ordinary crushed limestone (at $3.50 to $5 a ton) can do the job. So look for another use for limestone. It may be in big demand in a few months to help strip-mining firms reclaim mined-out land according to government standards.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jettie Hatfield Barker Sweatman, daughter of Madison and Eliza Gibbs Hatfield, was born August 24, 1891 in Wolfe County, Kentucky. She passed away on April 9, 1971, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Maines in Paris Crossing, Indiana at 7:30 a.m. from a heart attack. She was 80 years of age.

She had been stricken with a heart attack six weeks previous to her passing and was taken to Bartholomew County Hospital at Columbus, Indiana February 15. Seemingly her condition was improving when she received the second fatal heart attack.

She was united in marriage to Noah Barker, a land owner and farmer. To this union three sons and four daughters were born; Nola, Mildred, Martha, Beulah, Lexie, Woodroe, and Dorsa. Martha died in infancy and Nola and Lexie are deceased. After 18 years of happy life together, Mr. Barker, her husband went home to be with God in 1931.

She was converted in 1914 also was baptized and became a member of the Grassy Lick Church. She always loved to attend church there and elsewhere, and when opportunity afforded her to do so.

Her achieving and active hands extended continued support for her family. Some years elapsed before she was married to Rev. George Sweatman in 1934, a native of Perry County, Kentucky. Shortly after their marriage, they moved to Paris Crossing, Indiana. In 1944, again her husband was called from this earth. Now being left a widow twice, she remained living alone in her home in Indiana.

She, having been blest with good health has lived out her four score years. 10 years longer than the allotted time for man on earth. To the family and friends, we say, "Weep not as others who have no hope. All the Redeemed, our Lord will bring with Him when He returns to earth again." According to her life, and the fruit she bare, she is living with the Redeemed who will be forever with the Lord.

Surviving her are, Mildred, Beulah and Woodroe all of Paris Crossing, Indiana, and Dorsie of Cincinnati, Ohio. Two sons-in-law, Donnie Maines and a Mr. Ross both of Paris Crossing, Indiana, and 25 grandchildren, 19 great grandchildren, 1 great great grandchild, a number of nieces, nephews, cousins and many relatives and friends who will miss her vacant chair and presence here.

One more flower was plucked today
And carried silently away
Above, there to sleep and rest
With the Savior who knows the best.
From our presence was ushered on
To reach the heights so far beyond
The skyline our eyes now view
To rise Resurrection Day anew.

Funeral service for Mrs. Sweatman was held at Grassy Lick Church on April 11, with Rev. Russell Brown and Rev. Ernest Allen officiating. Mrs. Evalena Stewart pianoist playing AN UNCLOUDED DAY and WHERE WE'LL NEVER GROW OLD accompanied Grassy Lick Singers. Obituary by Mrs. Elsie Lacy immediately followed by prayer by her. The consoling words quote by both ministers comforted the grieving hearts of her friends. Her body was planted in the Grassy Lick Cemetery to await the Resurrection Morning. Funeral and burial arrangements were by the Undertaker of Paris Crossing, Indiana. The large crowd attending her Funeral and the beautiful floral offering help estimate how highly she was esteemed.

SADIE SEZ

Hi folks! On the way home from work this week, I noticed some new additions to the scenery. At the river bank the fellows were fishing at the school playground, the kids were playing and swinging. The fields in the open places weren't a dull brown anymore; instead, they had the rich black look of newly plowed rows.

The biggest "addition" I noticed was that 'old man sun' hadn't already gone to bed -- he was lingering right along beside me. What do all these additions mean? Well folks, it means just this -- spring is here, the days are longer, and the people are up and at it!

My boss, Thomas B. Thompson, manager of your Ahland social security office, has an "addition" to help you enjoy the spring season this year. You guessed it — social security's TELESERVICE.

We can sign you up for Black Lung benefits, get your Medicare card, file your annual report of earnings, or give you information about the new raise — all on the telephone Call 325-7666, and ask for Sadie. I'll be glad to help you. Or, if I'm already on the phone, I'll call you right back. You can be "first in line", get the information you need, and still have time to enjoy the longer days and pretty weather. I tell you this TELESERVICE is a streamlined snappy way to do your social security business!

Call us and ask for Sadie; I'm anxious to hear from you. Remember, if you want social security information, we're as near as your telephone.

See you next month Regards . . . Sadie

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY STUDY SHOWS DAMAGES DONE BY STRIP-MINING

WASHINGTON — The government's principal observer of land and water, the United States Geological Survey, released a 90-page document last week reporting on an 11-year field study of ecological life and death in a 25-mile creek basin in McCreary, County, Ky, a strip-mined coal region in southeast Kentucky.

The report's conclusion is that relatively small-scale strip-mining done there between 1955 and 1960 killed or reduced fish in streams by filling them with acid and mineral poisons, brought down hundreds of thousands of tons of channel-clogging silt and killed or stunted trees.

It also reported that the devastation is likely to continue unchecked for an undetermined period of years while nature tries to heal the wounds

The report noted that along the target creeks northeast of Greenwood, Ky., "the killing of aquatic vegetation has resulted in an unstable stream substrate. Aquatic life will not return to those streams until the stream habitat has been restored.

FIGURES AVAILABLE ON RECLAMATION

"During the six-year period following the cessation of mining," the report continues, "no repopulation of aquatic fauna was observed on Cane Branch and only limited repopulation was observed in Hughes Fork.

"No attempt has been made to judge the effects of mining as either beneficial or detrimental to the environment of man," the report states.

The report, first to be issued by the Geological Survey, comes at a time when both the anti-strip mining environmentalists and the coal industry are marshaling major campaigns to influence congressional action. Bills to stop all strip mining have been introduced in both the House and Senate.

The 90-page report is the first independent and controlled study in a prescribed area of the alleged local effects of strip mining.

Strip-mining critics have linked the method to killing of game, ruining of streams, wrecking of forests and scarring of dntire regions and mountain chains. Coal industry spokesmen recently have begun to answer with the contention that properly reclaimed strip-mined land is often "better" than it was before mining. Until now, there has been little upon which to assess the arguments.

Figures are available, however, on the progress of strip-mine reclamation. Only 58,000 of 1.8 million strip-mined acres have been restored, according to the Interior Department. The geological survey study, made before implementation of Kentucky's 1965 Strip Mine Control Law, presumably can be extended as a model of the environmental damage left by the vast areas of unreclaimed or poorly reclaimed stripping land.

7 ARRESTED IN ROWAN DRUG RAID

MOREHEAD, Ky. — Rowan County State Police converged at a house near here late Friday night, April 9, and arrested seven persons on drug offenses, including a Morehead State University student and three former students at the university.

The 11 p.m. raid occurred at a residence about a half mile west of Morehead on U. S. 60.

Raiding officers confiscated a quantity of drugs, including what was described as marijuana which was found in the car.

The seven were arraigned Saturday before Rowan County Judge Ott Caldwell. They waived preliminary hearings and their cases were referred to the spring term grand jury of Rowan County Circuit Court which convenes May 17.

Judge Caldwell set bond at $5,000 each in the cases of Ridenour and Caslin. Bonds were set at $1,000 for each of the other defendants, except for Miss Schneider, whose bond was set at $500.

2 Sundays Set For City-Wide Cleanup Drive In W. Liberty

Committees For Each Block Are Named By Club

Plans for town clean-up were finalized Wednesday night at the Kiwanis Club meeting. Organization for both town and county-wide clean-up and beautification has been under way for several weeks. The schools and various clubs and churches all have chairmen appointed.

It has been generally agreed that Sunday afternoons are the only practical days for the town cleanup, and the Sundays of April 18th and 25th have been chosen, from 1 to 5 p.m.

This means that fishing, golfing, and usual Sunday pleasures must be sacrificed in order to accomplish this much needed project. But it is hoped that every home and property owner in West Liberty will pitch in and enjoy working together to beautify the town in preparation for the upcoming Dogwood Festival.

A listing of supervisors who will have charge of clean-up efforts in their areas are as follow and it is hoped that womenfolk will assist their husbands in the clean-up drive.

WEATHER MAY CREATE SERIOUS FERTILIZER PROBLEM IN SPRING

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Recent snows and rains have kept Kentucky fields soft and damp, thus delaying the application of fertilizer for the coming growing season.

According to Dr. Kenneth Wells, soils specialist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, this delay in fertilizing may force the state's farmers into a bind.

"If too many farmers postpone fertilizer deliveries until planting time, a critical supply problem could develop," Wells said.

He explained that transportation and storage facilities available to the fertilizer industry will not permit dealers to handle in a week or ten days the large volume of orders usually placed in a 30 to 40 day period.

"If farmers continue to postpone ordering, some may find it necessary to delay planting or put crops in without adequate fertilization," Dr. Wells said. In either case, both yield and net returns will be reduced.

According to Dr. Wells, a spokesman for the Kentucky Plant Food Council, which recently said the bind can be resents the fertilizer industry, orders and accept deliveries as avoided if farmers will place far ahead of planting time as possible.

"If this doesn't happen," Dr. Wells explained, "some farmers may not get fertilizer when they want and need it."

Morgan Burley Income For Last 5 Years $13,050,775

5-Year Burley Income Meant $65,253,875 To County's Economy

Burley tobacco production in Morgan County over the last five years has given growers here income totaling $13,050,775 and has been worth five times that amount to the county's economy.

The figure, compiled from Kentucky ASC records, was reported by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association and the Council for Burley Tobacco to show the importance of burley production in Morgan County — both to the county's farmers and to its business interests.

University of Kentucky agriculture economists note that each such farm-produced dollar multiplies in the county's economy five times before it dis appears — which in the last five years, would reflect an economic, money-circulation factor of $65,253,875.

A referendum among burley growers will be conducted in early May on the question of whether they will accept a new program of poundage controls —or reject, for the first time in 31 years, price supports which have guaranteed fair prices and income stability to growers in Morgan county and elsewhere.

Should growers vote against accepting the new poundage control proposal, there will be no price supports for the 1971 crop of burley producers. There will be no alternative proposal on the poundage controls/ price supports question in balloting among growers. Without a program, growers taking their crops to market would have no guarantee of price — only what they could get for it at auction on the whims of market conditions.

The five-year income figure for Morgan County growers is based on the net yearly production of burley in this county in the 1966 through 1970 crops and the state average price they received for it each year.

Income for Morgan County burley producers in each of the years included:

1966 — $2,376,895.
1967 — $2,551,404.
1968 — $2,681,275.
1969 — $2,704,166.
1970 — $2,737,033.

"The importance of price supports on burley tobacco can readily be seen, and price supports — in order to keep them —must necessarily be coupled with reasonable controls on production," John M. Berry, president of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, said. The Burley Co-Op administers the price support program in Kentucky and four other states.

"The over-riding consideration," Berry said, "in all of the efforts to change the burley program was the fact that we must preserve the price support system to the lasting benefit of all growers."

BE PREPARED WHEN YOU FILE FOR YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Planning ahead for your retirement is a good idea according to Thomas B. Thompson, Ashland district social security manager. When you apply for social security benefits there will be certain proofs you will need to submit, he stated. It's a good idea to have these proofs ready in advance, so there will be no delay in receiving benefit payments.

One very important document you will need is proof of your age. A birth or baptismal record established at or near birth will be required if available. If you are not able to obtain such records then a school record, Federal census record, or other documents will be required. Telephone the social security office if you have difficulty or need assistance. The people there will be glad to help in any way possible.

Soical security will also need proof of your earnings for the year before you apply. This will be Form W-2 (Employees Statement of Earnings), or your Federal Income Tax return if you happen to be self-employed.

Thompson recommends that you always telephone the social security office before going in, so that you will have all necessary proofs when you do apply. Other proofs are necessary when applying for survivors benefits, and you can learn what they are if you telephone before going in.

The Ashland number is 325-7666, and the office is open Monday through Friday. Planning ahead, and calling that number in advance, will help get your benefits to you with the least possible delay.

With the Morgan County Dogwood Festival (May 7-8) only three weeks away, Sam D. Cecil of Hazel Green, one of the area's most skilled whittlers, is busy making and selecting items he's already made for a display on West Liberty's Main Street during the event. Shown above at work in his workshop, Mr. Cecil's two "specialties" hand carved coffee sets, made of native red cedar (top right) and hens and roosters (right center) are highly prized by collectors. Each piece of the 10-piece coffee set is carved from a solid block of cedar, nothing glued on. Mr. Cecil says it requires around 30 days, working seven to eight hours per day, to complete a full set. The hen and rooster sets, carved from forked aple tree branches, require about a half day of work. Mr. Cecil says that the branches must be selected with care because they must "fork just right" to get the desired effect. At bottom righ are examples of other attractive and useful articles made by Mr. Cecil from poplar, hickory, walnut, cherry, and other woods. From left in bottom photo are a match holder, miniature butter churn, miniature pitcher, butter mold, letter or napkin holder (with miniature ox yoke), small magazine rack, a pin cushion, and sewing basket. Mr. Cecil, a retired farmer, says he has been "whittlin" for eight or nine years and has sold his handwork to friends and relatives in 17 states. He is looking forward to participating in the Dogwood Festival "if health permits."

NO JUNKED CAR BOUNTY OFFERED

WASHINGTON — If anybody in Appalachia is saving junked cars in hopes of collecting a bounty, forget it.

That's the word from Donald W. Whitehead, federal co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission, who once suggested before a Congressional committee that a $15 bounty be paid for old cars.

But he said some residents of the 13-state Appalachia region have apparently jumped to the conclusion that such a plan is in the offing and are hoarding junked cars.

Whitehead emphasized, however, that it's unlikely any such bounty would be offered. In any case, he said, if a reward system for old cars were established it would probably not be done with Appalachian Regional Commission funds.

A bounty is only one of several staff suggestions for eliminating the junked car problem in Appalachia, Whitehead noted, others being shredding, bailing and portable flattners.

Much concern over the $15 reward suggestion came from junk car dealers who often pay less than that amount for old hulks, Whitehead said.

Earl V. Tredway Engineering Co. of West Liberty has a contract with the U. S. Forest Service to survey a 2600 acre boundary along the Menifee-Bath county line which the Forest Service recently purchased. The tract is known as the old W. H. Means lands and lays near the headwaters of Salt Lick. The Forest Service may build a conservation dam there and maybe fish hatcheries also, it is reported.

They Have His Violin Her Antiques-And Each Other

Mrs. Whitt Enjoys Her Fine Antiques

Wallace Whitt and His Violin

BY PHYLLIS BYRON
The Bath County News

He loves his violin—she loves her antique, and they both love each other. This is the idyllic setting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Whitt, who live on Highway 60 between Owingsville and Salt Lick.

The Whitts retired from farming seven years ago to move into the little brick which is their present home and which gives a sunny setting for his wheelchair. The wheelchair is usually found placed next to the piano, so that he can easily swing it around in order to play his violin to the accompaniment of his wife Alice's piano. The violin which he so prizes was purchased ten years ago from Irvin Garner, who had found it lying on a road. A label still clinging to it states that it was made in Germany, a copy of a Stradivarious—and it is believed by Mr. Whitt to be over 200 years old. "I'll put it against any in the county for tone and volume," he said.

The small delicate instrument is in excellent shape now, but when it was purchased from Mr. Garner, it was, in Mr. Whitt's words, "Just torn to pieces!" It cost $5.50, he said, to have it torn down and rebuilt with new ebony top pieces. Now its owner claims, "It is well worth $500" -- but of course he wouldn't part with it!

Although he plays the instrument well, he never actually had any instruction—before he acquired it he played the banjo, and when he got the violin he just seemed to adapt to its technique naturally.

The violin is a very important part of his life, because four years ago Mr. Whitt lost his sight—then last March, he lost his left leg. Now being confined to his wheel chair and unable to read—his music is a wonderful source of enjoymest and creativity.

Wallace Whitt is a native of Morgan County, a son of the late M. M. (Merida) and Essie Mayes Whitt of Pleasant Run. The late Mr. Whitt was a merchant at Yocum and Wallace also resided there for years before moving to Bath County.

Mrs. Whitt is a native of Bath County, although she left there at the age of six when her mother married for the second time and the family moved to Mt. Sterling. This move was a happy one, for it provided her with three half-brothers she loved greatly and it was in Mt. Sterling that she received her education at a private school.

"I've been a farmer all my life," she says, "I love the country." Her family owned land in Rowan, Montgomery and Menifee and at her grandfather's death, she received 500 of his 1600 acres. Her grandmother was Alice Ewing, and Mrs. Whitt believes that now she may be the only one of the Ewings left here.

Antiques are a part of her life—most of their pieces are of course family ones, but her love of the old and beautiful has also brought about the purchase of many others. The beautiful mahogany Victorian Empire sofa in the couple's living room was one she found many years ago at the old Owings house, where it had been stored by Hattie Seacrest's grandmother from Nicholas County. Next to the sofa sits a particularly appealing chair, victorian in vintage and fashioned after the style of Louis XV— this was her mother's. The Chippendale mirror over the sofa, is an acquired piece from New Orleans. In one bedroom there is a dainty little Windsor chair and in each of the bedrooms are handsome Chippendale chests, beds and tables, any of which would cause an antique dealer to reach for his checkbook at first glance. On the tables and chests are heavy pieces of Willow Ware—however, Mrs. Whitt mourns the pieces that are gone—"I had more beautiful beds and drop leaf tables," she says shaking her head. "I've let a fortune in antiques get away from me."

The Whitts celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary in February. He admits that he sometimes suffers quite a bit of pain, but doesn't let it daunt him! I can get out of bed into my wheelchair by myself," he claims proudly—and then, "but I can't get out of my chair very well" She is 88 years of age, and finds that her daily chores increase with the years rather than diminish—but the Whitts are not discouraged. Last Fall she put out several lilacs and lilly plants. "We have roses too," she says, "Come see us in the Spring when everything's in bloom —it'll be beautiful then!"

APPEAL TO VOTERS OF MORGAN CO.

The Democratic primary offers the people of Morgan county several capable candidates and men of experience for the office of Lt. Governor. They are all good men, but one of them has proven and demonstrated his interest and devotion to our people. This candidate is the Hon. John B. Breckinridge, the present Attorney General.

During our drive to build the Kennedy Memorial Library we found ourselves unable to come up with local financing to complete the job. John Breckinridge volunteered his service and headed a state-wide drive to raise money through private contribution. He took time out of his busy schedule and work load, and through his untiring efforts raised some $22,000 to help us match state and federal funding which made the library a reality.

John has strong local connections here in Morgan County. His wife's folks came from the Caney Valley-Cannel City secton, being closely related to several prominent families in the area. Mrs. Congleton, John's mother-in-law, personally contributed $5,000 to our library venture.

John has a proven record in state government both in the legislature and in the executive branches of government, that has not only been good for Morgan County but for the state at large. As Attorney-General he has dealt with promptly, thoroughly, and courteously with any legal question that citizens and government agencies have directed to him.

Regardless of who you favor in the Governor's race we should seriously consider John B. Breckinridge for Lt. Governor. He is not aligned with any faction and can work with whoever may be elected governor. Since he has already proven his worthiness and capability, we appeal to you, the voters, to support John B. Breckinridge for Lt. Governor.

THE HOPE WE THINK-BELIEVE IS THE WEB WE WEAVE

By Norman V. Olson

Like many strands of fiber
That entwine to form a rope.
Faith also is woven by
Our thought-threads of hope.
In this process called thinking,
We so subtly weave
The substance and the shape
Of all that we receive.

Patience is bitter, but its fruits are sweet.

STATE SENATOR

27th SENATORIAL DISTRICT

Democratic voters will select a nominee for the State Senate 27th Senatorial District on May 25th.

The two top contenders for this important position in State Government are: Joe Stacy, West Liberty and John R. Turner, Jackson. We believe the voters want to know and certainly they deserve to learn as much as possible about these candidates in order to make a proper judgement May 25th.

Mr. Stacy and Mr. Turner both have established records in the Legislature since both have served as State Senator.

Their performance while serving in the Legislature is a matter of public record and can be examined by anyone who will take the time and effort to research the Senate Journal — the official Senate Record.

We have done this and our findings are for your information:

A total of 354 Bills were voted on by the Senate in 1962. Mr. Turner's first session in the Senate. He failed to vote on 101 of these bills, or 29% of the total Bills.

In 1964 the Senate voted on 261 Bills. Mr. Turner failed to vote on 81 of these Bills or 31%.

During the 1966 Session a total of 317 Bills were considered by the Senate, Mr. Turner failed to vote on 157 Bills, or 50% of the total.

Mr. Turner's record on voting became progressively worse each session he served. In 1968, of 372 Bills voted on by the Senate, he failed to vote on 186 of them or 51%.

We don't feel that the people of this District want a part time Senator.

We note that Mr. Turner has listed items in his political advertising which he deems most important. They are: Social Services, Veterans and Education. We wonder why he failed to vote on Bills pertaining to these items when he had the opportunity to do so?

1. We invite you Mr. Part Time Senator to explain why you were not there to vote on these issues. We think the citizens of this district should know why you were absent or failed to vote.

2. Why did you fail to stand up and be counted on 44 educational bills, 41 social service bills, 10 highway bills and 5 veterans bills. You say they are important to you now. Why were they not important to you then, Mr. Part Time Senator?

3. Explain to the people who are interested in Morehead University where you were in 1966 when your vote was needed so badly to make Morehead a University, as well as the other State Colleges.

4: Explain to the people who are interested in educating their children where you were in 1966 when House Bill No. 560, which increased the minimum allotment from the Foundation Program, was being voted on.

5. Where were you in 1968 when House Bill No. 563 was before the Senate? This was a bill to raise teachers salaries.

6. Where were you in 1966 when Senate Bill No. 46, which permitted orphans of War Veterans to attend State supported colleges free was being voted on?

7. Where were you in 1966 when Senate Bill No. 248 was being voted on? This bill provided for the re-employment of public employees who leave their positions to serve in the armed forces.

8. Where were you Mr. Part Time Senator when House Bill No. 38 was being voted on in the Senate in 1964? In case you don't know this bill extended motor vehicle operators license period for members of our armed forces.

9. Where were you in 1962 when House Bill No. 136 was voted on in the Senate? This bill authorized public assistance to any person with whom needy children live.

10. Where were you in 1968 when House Bill No. 107 was being voted on in the Senate? This bill would allow old age assistance recipients to reside with their children without a reduction in their checks.

11. Where were you in 1964 when House Bill No. 483, which increased Workmens Compensation benefits, was being voted on in the Senate.

12. Where were you Mr. Part Time Senator, when these important issuess were bing voted on? We think the people are entitled to know.

We do give you credit for being present in 1968 and for leaving the party which elected you to vote for the 5% Sales Tax Bill. We wonder why?

By contrast, Senator Joe Stacy was not absent one day while serving during two sessions in the Legislature. He never failed to vote on Bills which affected the interests of the people of the District.

This is why we are asking you to join us to work and vote for Joe Stacy on May 25th. His election will assure the District a hard working ever present Senator, who will work and fight for the interests of the people.

Joe Stacy for State Senator

President Ton Due Thang

"Help Our POWs," Box 1600

Mr. President:

You have claimed repeatedly that American citizens held in your "detention camps" are being treated humanely. But you offer no proof of this. Except under the most restricted circumstances, you will not even allow foreign observers to enter these camps.

Proof of your sincerity would be the immediate repatriation of all sick and wounded captives and the release (or transfer to some neutral nation) of all prisoners whose health has been jeopardized by long confinement. By doing so, you could perhaps end some of the uncertainty and dismay your policies have created throughout the community of nations. I join with millions the world over in urging you to take these steps.

EDITOR OF FARM BUREAU NEWS URGES VOTE FOR POUNDAGE PLAN

By Roy Stevens, Editor
Kentucky Farm Bureau News

"Are you in favor of marketing quotas for burley tobacco for the three marketing years beginning October 1, 1971?"

That is the question which will be presented to burley growers in a referendum to be held within the next few weeks.

But the question really doesn't tell the whole story, nor does it indicate the real choice to be made by growers.

The real choice is (a) whether to continue price supports and production control for burley, or (b) to abolish the total price support- production control program.

If two-thirds of the growers voting in the referendum vote "Yes", price supports for burley will be in effect for 1971, 1972 and 1973 and production control will be accomplished through use of poundage quotas.

If the necessary two-thirds "Yes" vote is not secured, there will be no price supports or production control for burley in 1971 — or in future years unless growers approve a poundage quota plan in a subsequent referendum.

If the burley program is approved this year, the future of burley tobacco will be much brighter than it might have been. The new poundage control system will put the burley program on sound footing by bringing supply in line with demand, and thereby will strengthen the foundation on which price supports rest.

In addition to preserving price supports and production control, the new program contains several beneficial features not available under previous programs.

For example, there is a provision, which protects farmers against loss of a burley crop due to weather, fire theft, etc. It provides that if a crop is lost, or is simply not grown, the farmer can grow it the next year and market it along with his new quota.

Another advantage of the new program is that it will allow the leasing of up to 15,000 pounds of burley within county lines. Small growers who want to expand their production can do so up to the 15,000 pound limit, and elderly persons or others who either cannot or do not want to raise their quotas can lease them to other growers. Quotas can be transferred, by lease, from farm to farm (they need not be raised on the farms to which they are assigned) thus making it easier to produce leased quotas.

Growers will be able to market up to 10 percent over their annual quotas, with any excess marketings deducted from the next year's quotas. Likewise, as already noted, any production below a farmer's quota will be added to his next year's quota.

In no year of an approved program will quota reductions exceed 5 percent for any grower, and in 1972 and 1973 the maximum reductions — if reductions are needed — for small growers (those who had allotments of one-half acre or less under the acreage system) cannot exceed 2½ percent.

The advantages of the new program, and the desirability of a "Yes" vote, are clear.

The alternatives— the death of price supports and production control — could wreck havoc in the burley market. Production could skyrocket without production control, and without price support prices could take a nose dive.

The question to decided in the referendum indeed goes beyond whether farmers favor marketing quotas for the next three years.

The question goes directly to the pocketbook of every burley farmer, and to the heart of Kentucky's economy.

It is no exaggeration to say the future of burley tobacco, and of the farmers who raise it, is hanging in the balance.

MAYTOWN LADY MOTHER OF 11 DROWNS IN WELL

A 36-year-old Wolfe County woman, mother of 11 children, drowned early last Friday morning in a narrow well at her home at Maytown.

As he was returning home, Tolson said, he heard one of their children crying, and upon investigation found his wife's body.

He said about 15 minutes elasped before he and a son were able to extricate the body from the well, and that he then notified the corner.

THIS HOME IS PLANNED TO SAVE YOU MONEY

Maybe you've been thinking, "Sure, I'd like to build on my property, but at today's prices, how can I afford the home I really want?"

If you are a person who is handy with tools . . . if you know how to drive a nail . . . or paint a room . . . if you have an ordinary, common-sense ability to work with your hands Jim Walter will show you a money-saving plan that will allow you to afford the home you think you can't afford . . . how you can save many, many dollars simply by doing some of the inside finish work yourself. It doesn't matter how much. The more you can do, the more money you can save. Let Jim Walter do the hard part — finish the outside and as much of the inside as you say. Then you take over and finish the rest yourself. Even if you can only do a very little bit, the money you'll save will be worthwhile.

LOW IN COST • BUILT ON YOUR PROPERTY • OVER 20 MODELS

Not only will you save money by finishing some of the inside yourself, but you'll also save on the low, low purchase price and on upkeep because of the low-maintenance materials. Jim Walter-built homes cost less, but this doesn't mean you get less. We'll use high-quality construction methods and low maintenance materials such as heavy-duty roofing, designed for years of protection; hardboard siding that resists rot, won't split or crack and holds paint many times longer than most other siding; and all aluminum windows that won't swell and stick or cause rust stains. As a matter of fact you get more for your money with Jim Walter as your builder.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

"Many folks have the mistaken idea that they must wait four to six months before filing for disability," said Thomas B. Thompson, district manager of the Ashland social security office. This erroneous notion sprang from an incomplete understanding of two basic requirements: One, that a person must supply current medical evidence four or more months after the disability occurred; two, that no payment can be made for the first six months of disability.

"Actually, it helps to file immediately after becoming disabled," Thompson went on to say. In this way all of the requirements are carefully explained and there is sufficient time to meet these requirements without holding up benefits. Payments can then be made promptly without the late filer's hangup caused by delay in obtaining essential evndence.

To further speed up processing of disability claims Thompson suggests filing by telephone. "It's no longer necessary to visit the office for a face-to-face interview. In most cases it's easier and quicker to phone from the comfort of your home. Our number in Ashland is 325-7666. Please use it to apply for disability benefits as well as for all other social security needs."

ENGLE'S ANGLE

HILL POEMS FOR HILL PEOPLE

BY JOHN D. ENGLE, JR.

RHAPSODY

Spring! Spring! Spring!
Again I wake to the wonder of bright bird-music
on the edge of dawn.
I find that last night's heralding voice of thunder has roused reluctant jonquils on my lawn,
and now they dance
to the rhapsody of showers which bathe the newborn earth in liquid rhyme.
Soon the northbound sun
will coax new flowers to leap from my barren
garden's heart.
The time has come for April music.
Bluebirds basking
in morning rain
now preen themselves and sing
while I,
with emotions
that mere words are masking,
can only whisper,
"Thank You, God,
for spring."

OBITUARY

TAULBEE

Martelie Bach Taulbee was born at Daysboro, Wolfe County, Kentucky, May 19, 1886, and departed this life at the home of her son, Jesse, in Waverly, Ohio March 19, 1971. Her age at the time of death was 84 years and ten months. She was the daughter of Berry and Mary Caudill Bach.

On May 29, 1902, Martelie was married to Frank Taulbee of Magoffin County. To this union the following children were born: Kelly Taulbee of Cincinnati, Ohio; Wellie Taulbee of Orlando, Florida; Stellie Taulbee of Malone, Ky., Wilgus Taulbee of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mary Etta Taulbee decreased; Meadie Litteral of Caney, Ky., Jesse Taulbee of Waverly, Ohio; Lonnie Taulbee of Covington, Ky., and Dennie Taulbee of Cincinnati, Ohio. Also she leaves 19 grandchildren and 34 great grandchildren.

Her husband, Frank Taulbee, died January 9, 1954. She and Frank spent 52 happy years together working and rearing a large family. After Frank's death in 1954 she was married to Kendrick Caudill of Breathitt County on December 3, 1955. She and Kendrick spent over five years of happy married life and on January 14, 1961, Kendrick passed into the great beyond, thus leaving Martelie a widow again. She continued to live a widow's life her remaining 10 years. She leaves some stepchildren whom she dearly loved.

Martelie was from a family of eight children, and she has out lived all her father's family excepting two girls: Parit Keeton of Cincinnati, Ohio and Meadie Walters of Middletown, Ohio. Her brother and sisters decreased are Ellen Keeton, Sarah Jane Creech, Susan Stamper, Maggie Creech, and Troy Bach.

Martelie was converted and became a member of the Baptist Church in 1912. She has been a faithful member of the United Baptist Church at Brushy Fork for many years.

Martelie grew up with a large family and learned the ways of hard work and toil from early childhood. From a small girl up to womanhood she took her place among her sisters and brother hoeing corn from sun-rise until sunset in the high hills of Magoffin and Breathitt Counties. She helped her parents make a living until marriage and continued to love and honor them until their death in later life. After she was married to her first husband, Frank Taulbee, she reared eight children and had to continue to work and struggle for the welfare of her children. Never did she shrink from her duty in the field, garden or with the house work.

From the time she was converted in 1912 until her death it can truly be said she was a "Soldier of the Cross". She could easily be seen visiting and helping the sick in so many ways—she loved church so much and did not seek for excuses to keep from filling her seat in church—she would go to her church communion to take the bread and wine and wash the Saint's feet when she really was not physically able to be out of her home. She loved the old time way and was not ashamed of that "Good Old Way". Hundreds of times she has asked for people to sing, preach and pray in her home. During her married life she has cooked and fed hundreds and thousands of church people, and has been known many times to give her bed up to someone who had come to church and lodged in her home and she and her husband would lie on a pallet on the bare floor. She was one of our few mothers now who would rejoice and shout during the close of the church service—many of us can still see her deep back in our memories—Clapping her hands for joy and speaking words of praise to her Lord and Master and saying in words so sweet and tended, Oh, if my children would just come and go with me to my heavenly home, I would be so happy and I would be willing then to die.

During the last days and months of her life while in the home of her son, Jesse, her daughter-in-law, Sister Jewell Taulbee, heard her so humbly singing the old song, "Death, What A Solemn Call To All," and many times she sang, "The Day Is Past and Gone." And as she was nearing the end of her happy life on earth she was heard saying so quiet and low and yet in tones of thunder, she called the names of all her children, whom she had so dearly loved through life and still held them precious to her heart in death. After repeating the names of her children she must have been viewing her eternal home among the angelic host for her last words were "Come on, Come on, Hurry, Hurry, Hurry, that is the prettiest place I have ever seen" and her last word on earth was "Mother."

Surely the life of such a mother will influence her children, and may her good advice, her songs, prayers and shouts echo loudly in the hearts of all her children and friends—and may these happy memories of such a dear mother and christian as Martelie was be guiding stars for all our wayward feet until we meet her again among the singing and shouting of angels in her beautiful heavenly home where sorrow and death cannot come but we will live together eternally.

THE OLD CLAY HOUSE

When I am through with this old clay house of mine,
When no more guide lights
through the windows shine,
Just box it up and lay it away,
With the other clay houses of yesterday.
I know my dear friends, its too late to mend,
A bad builded house when you come to the end,
But to you who are building
and still on the line,
Make your changes while there is yet time.
You ask what material is best to select,
Twas told long ago by the Great Architect,
A new commandment I give unto you,
That you love one another, as
I have loved you.
So the very best timber to send up above,
Is clear straight timber of Brotherly LOVE.
